

LIFE.
Life is like the gushing stream,
Flowing from the wooded mountains,
Sparkling in the moon-tide beams,
Bubbling up from crystal fountains.
Life is onward in its flow,
Like the calm, majestic river,
Gathering strength while here below,
From its motions ceasing never.

As the stream flows to the river,
As the river to the sea,
Life is flowing on forever,
Reaching to eternity.

Life is full of care and trial,
While it dwells upon the earth,
And a holy self-denial,
Fits it for a heavenly birth.

Heavenward tend its solemn marches,
Rising ever, drawing nigh,
To the bright, o'erhanging arches,
Opening to the upper sky.

WATERLOO—BEFORE AND AFTER.

We were forcibly struck lately, (says the Knickerbocker) in reading Dumas' "Shores of the Rhine," by this contrasted picture of "Napoleon going to and returning from Waterloo." The two scenes are worthy the pencil of Delacroix:

"We saw two carriages approaching, galloping each with six horses. They disappeared for an instant in a valley, then rose again at a quarter of a league distant, from us. Then we set off running toward the town, crying 'L'Empereur! L'Empereur!' We arrived breathless, and only preceding the Emperor by some five hundred paces. I thought he would not stop, whatever might be the crowd awaiting him, and so made for the post-house, when I sunk down half-dead with the running; but at any rate I was there. In a moment appeared, turning the corner of a street, the foaming horses; then the pestillions all covered with ribbons; then the carriages themselves; then the people following the carriages. The carriages stopped at the post. I saw Napoleon! He was dressed in a green coat, with little epaulettes, and wore the officer's cross of the legion of honor. I only saw his bust framed in the square of the carriage window. His head fell upon his chest, that famous medallion head of the old Roman Emperors. His forehead fell forward, his features, immovable, were of the yellowish color of wax; only his eyes appeared to be alive."

Next him, on his left, was Prince Jerome a King without a kingdom, but a faithful brother. He was at that period a fine young man of six-and-twenty or thirty years of age, his features regular and well formed, his beard black, his hair elegantly arranged. He saluted in place of his brother, whose vague glance seemed lost in the future—perhaps in the past. Opposite the emperor was Letort, his aid-de-camp and ardent soldier, who seemed already to snuff the air of battle; he was smiling too, the poor fellow as if he had long days to live! All this lasted for about a minute. Then the whip cracked, the horses neighed, and it all disappeared like a vision.

"Three days afterward, toward evening, some people arrived from St. Quentin; they said that as they came away they heard cannon. The morning of the 17th, a courier arrived who scattered all along the road the news of the victory. The eighteenth nothing. The nineteenth nothing; only vague rumors were abroad, coming no one knew whence. It was said that the Emperor was at Brussels. The twentieth, three men in rags, two wounded, and riding jaded horses all covered with foam, entered the town, and were instantly surrounded by the whole population, and pushed into the court-yard of the town-house. These men hardly spoke French. They were, I believe, Westphalians, belonging somehow to our army. To all our questions they only shook their heads sadly, and ended by confessing that they had quitted the field of battle of Waterloo, at 8 o'clock, and that the battle was lost when they came away. It was the advanced guard of the fugitives. We would not believe them. We said these men were Prussian spies. Napoleon could not be beaten! That fine army which we had seen pass could not be destroyed. We wanted to put the poor fellows into prison; so quickly had we forgotten '13 and '14, to remember the years which had gone before."

My mother ran to the fort, where she passed the whole day, knowing it was there the news must arrive, whatever it were. During this time I looked out in the maps for Waterloo, the name of which even I could not find, and began to think the place was imaginary, as was the men's accounts of the battle. At four o'clock, more fugitives arrived, who confirmed the news of the first comers. These were French, and could give all the details, which we asked for. They repeated what the others had said, only adding that Napoleon and his brother were killed. This we would not believe. Napoleon might not be invincible—invisible he certainly was. Fresh news more terrible and disastrous continued to come in until ten o'clock at night.

"At ten o'clock at night we heard the noise of a carriage. It stopped and the Postmaster went out with a light. We followed him, as he ran to the door to ask for news. Then he started a step back, and cried, 'It's the Emperor!'—I got on a stone bench, and looked over my mother's shoulder. It was indeed Napoleon; seated in the same corner, in the same uniform, his head on his breast as before. Perhaps it was bent a little lower; but there was not a line in his countenance, not an altered feature, to mark what were the feelings of the great gambler, who had just staked and lost the world. Jerome and Letort were not with him to bow and smile in his place. Jerome was gathering together the remnants of the army, Letort had been cut into with a cannon ball. Napoleon lifted his head slowly, looked round as if rousing from a dream, and then, with his brief, strident voice, 'What place is this?' he said, Villers-Coteret. 'Sire, "How many leagues from Soissons?" 'Six, Sire.' 'From Paris?' 'Nineteen.' 'Tell the post-boys to go quick,' and he once more flung himself back into the corner of his carriage, his head fell on his chest. The horses carried him away as if they had wings!"

The world knows what has taken place between these two apparitions of Napoleon!

GIGANTIC HEMP.—A new kind of hemp has just been introduced into France from China. It is called the Lamaborsasus. It is represented as growing twenty-four feet high, and the stalk is from five to six inches in circumference. It produces seed abundantly, and each plant will furnish fibre enough to make a yard of superb lawn.

It ripens its seeds well in the South of France, and of course will be at home in some parts of the Southern States, and if it be half as profitable a plant as is represented, would be a valuable acquisition to that section of the Union. Some allowance must be made for French enthusiasm. They always crack up their new acquisitions higher than any body else, and will make the tallest display with the least capital of any body on earth.—Maine Farmer.

RHEUMATISM CAN BE CURED BY THE PROPER USE OF MYERS' EMBROCATION!

THIS sovereign and effectual remedy for that painful disease, was discovered upwards of sixty years ago by the Grand-Father of the undersigned, (a German Physician of his day) and has never been made known out of his family.

Its incredible cures have astonished thousands who have witnessed its power over disease. Unfortunately, despairing invalids, who have been bed-ridden for years, have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health. It banishes all pain in a few days, and its efficacy is gladly realized by the patients being able to resume their usual avocations, after having suffered in torments for months and years. The wonderful success of the EMBROCATION, in curing the worst cases of Rheumatism, has acquired for it a celebrity unprecedented, and its fame originated from its own merits. It never has failed to cure Rheumatism, either inflammatory or chronic; and I feel safe in saying it never will if fairly tried. I pledge myself to refund the cash to any person who uses it properly without being benefited thereby. You who are afflicted may have tried every other remedy but this. Try it, and if it does not cure, it will not cost you any thing. By this rule I desire it should be used.

Persons are warned to be on their guard of whom they purchase, as several mean attempts have been made to procure the RECIPE from which this medicine is prepared. The proprietor deems it his duty to say to the afflicted, that he will furnish travelling agents with written authority for depositing it. If the name is on each bottle, and none genuine unless prepared by HENRY C. MYERS, Fayette, Missouri.

EVIDENCE OF ITS EFFICACY.
Read what those say of the Embrocation who have used it. A few of the hundreds who have testified can only be quoted here.

From Elders T. M. ALLEN and M. P. WILLS, Boone County, Mo., August 3, 1848.
This is to certify, that we have used "Myers' Embrocation" in our families, with entire success, and we hereby take great pleasure in recommending to any who may be afflicted with Rheumatism as a most sovereign remedy.
T. M. ALLEN, M. P. WILLS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., February 20, 1849.
This is to certify that I was cured of a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, from the use of one bottle of your Embrocation, and hope every fellow-sufferer will use it, for their is no doubt but it will cure any case, however violent; this I can safely assert after using it myself.

Yours, Respectfully,
HENRY C. MYERS, Fayette, Mo.

HAMPTON L. BOON, Clerk of the Supreme Court of Missouri, and Editor of the Jefferson City Metropolitan, speaks of the Embrocation as follows, in his paper:
We desire to call the particular attention of all persons afflicted with Rheumatism to this very valuable medicine. One bottle we believe will cure any case, however violent. The senior editor of this paper, suffered from the last winter and present spring, suffered so much from Rheumatism that he was unable at times to walk or stand upon his feet, or even change his position in bed without assistance. A part of a bottle cured him in a few days. His son was also afflicted with the same dreadful complaint, and suffered the most excruciating pain until an application of the Embrocation was made, which effected an entire cure. Col. Minor of this city, also had a severe attack of Rheumatism this spring from which he suffered severely, and which confined him to his bed for several weeks. Nothing gave him any relief until he sent to Rochester, for a bottle of your Embrocation, and got a bottle of your Embrocation; and gave it to a neighbor whose wife had been much afflicted with Rheumatism of the Chronic form for years. The effect is so self-evident, that if you see proper, you can send me 50 bottles, as I can dispose of it now that it has been tried here.

Yours, Respectfully,
W. WATKINS.

JACOB BLATTNER'S NEW
Electro Magneto Machine,
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES.
No. 58, Second Street, near Pine, St. Louis, Mo.

The favor with which this little Machine has been received by many of the Medical profession, and others who have used them on persons laboring under various diseases, who have been restored to health, or benefited thereby, induces this publication. The machine is quite different from all Electrical Machines, and Galvanic Batteries; it requires to be used but from one to five minutes at a time. The effects are not repulsive to the patient, and no ill effects can be referred to. Testimonials in its favor are daily accumulating. It admits of the most perfect control, as, from a high degree of power, it can be reduced with unerring certainty, down to the very smallest, by a slight alteration of the wire, at the pleasure of the operator. It requires no assistant in its use, where the person is able to hold the handles. The machine has been applied in cases of Tic Doloré, Erysipelas, Nervous Tremor, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Sick Headache, St. Vitus' Dance, Scrofula, White Swelling, Curvature of the Spine, King's Evil, Dyspepsia, Disease of the Throat, Toothache, Bronchitis, Spasms, Loss of Voice, Deafness, and numerous cases can be referred to within the last four months. Many of the cures have been pronounced astonishing.
